The dark-colored, rectangular fragment of wood, which came from the Discourse of Jesus in Germany, is believed to be part of the cross in which Jesus Christ was nailed.

But even for those who might not be seeking a miracle, the opportunity to "pray" and "talk with the Lord" is reason enough to visit the monastery, which is located in the heart of the 270-hectare Tarlac Amusement Park, 30 kilometers from Tarlac City.

SWS: Voters going for GO

Ruling coalition not ruling local electoral races

THE RULING COALITION IS FAR from dominating the congressional, gubernatorial and mayoral races in the May 14 elections, according to findings of a survey conducted by the Social Weather Stations.

In a statement, SWS said "the plurality [of registered voters] would vote for opposition candidates, and only the minority would vote for administration candidates for representative, governor and mayor."

The survey, conducted nationwide from Feb. 24 to Feb. 27, also found that those who preferred administration candidates would not vote straight for candidates of the Three Unions (TUS).

TU senatorial candidates would get only four to five seats among pre-administration voters, according to the SWS.

The survey found that among those who would vote for opposition candidates for local positions, the Senate race scores were consistently 8.2-2 in favor of the Greater Opposition (GO) candidates.

Considered one of the country's most beautiful churches, the Sts. Monica church in Angat, Bulacan, is a pilgrimage destination for the faithful who prefer their beliefs lavishly illustrated. The central frescoes are variations of the Divine Chapel's masterpieces by Michelangelo. But both sides of the ceiling portray Philippine events and traditions such as "Sikang Gabi," the First Mass at Linares and "Surocracion." Though the church was rebuilt by Frenchmen in 1921, the ceiling was painted by Rene Rabier only in 1966 and Jon Santos in 2001.

Music's wonders in the 'acoustic gospel, according to Father Mimo

By Nikita Dizon

THIS FIDELITY PRISTINE HAS LITERALLY brought a melody ring to Holy Week through his songs of worship, praise and inspiration.

For the past years, Fr. Josemaria "Mimo" Pineda of the Apostolic Preaching of Calapan has been promoting and conducting "acoustic gospel mission time" here and abroad.

Acoustic gospel missionaries share a worship devotion from the traditional and everything activities, such as retreats, for most Catholics undertake during Holy Week as they seek to find a way to repent and strengthen their relationship with God.

Like a low-key concert, an acoustic gospel meditation makes the most of the wonders of music in marking and spreading the Word of God.

"Music is really the language of the heart. The Word is already powerful but it becomes more powerful if it is accompanied."

The outgoing mayor of San Fernando town didn't mind. His supporters didn't, either.

Joining him on that arduous trip was the most they could do for someone who dared to go against a seemingly unbeatable foe.

Realtors ship Duremdes, C'not to Tigers

Kevin Duremdes (above) and Alex Cabagnot (below) are expected to be shipped to the Philippines by the Philippine national team.

By Phoebe S. Gueffo

STA. LUCIA, WHICH OWNS one of the highest payrolls but remains one of the poorest underachievers in the PBA in recent years, dealt former MVP Kenneth Duremdes and cornerstone prospect Alex Cabagnot to Coca-Cola in a five-player trade consummated yesterday.

Early the biggest movement made, Duremdes, Cabagnot and veteran Francisco Galang were shipped to the Tigers for sophomore guard Dennis Villanueva, third-string center Marlon Panabo and Coca-Cola's second round draft pickmate, Yano.

The move obviously was meant to free up space in the salary cap of the franchise, whose first and only title came in 2003 and who finished last in the new tournament last year despite a roster that has several foreign talents and executives that pay the maximum to their players.

While Duremdes acknowledged that he is approaching the twilight of a career, since that started from the late 1990s, there were still 100,000 fans in the stands who were cheering for him. Cabagnot, who was picked second overall in last year's draft behind Anthony Muehlenberg, has received a lot of attention from the league and has shown the potential to be the best point guard in the PBA.

"It's a pity losing Cabagnot, because it's such a great player for his college," coach Mark Reyes lamented.

While the franchise obviously lost some star power, the move is expected to be a win-win for both teams.

"I'm glad that we have found players whom we believe belong to our team," said Reyes. "We are looking forward to seeing them in action."

"We got a chance to build our team and bring in leadership in the team, while I believe that Alex is one of the best players in the league right now," he added.

"I'm excited," he said. "I'm excited to be part of the team. This is a great chance for me to prove myself, and you just have to wait and see."

US MASTERS

Tiger, Phil set to relive rivalry

PHOTOGRAPH BY JEFFREY M. HARRIS

ATLANTA, GEORGIA—BAYBREEK, 18 Augusta National brought together the two most prominent figures of the Masters, the first champions of the week between Tiger Woods and Phil Mickelson.

It was brief. Woods showed up on the first tee and looked back at the putting green in Mickelson's direction.

"Let's go," he said.

It was the way talking, of course, to Mark O'Meara, who picked up the golf ball and passed it to Woods for a practice swing.

It is one to exaggerate the rivalry of Woods and Mickelson, especially at the Masters. Compared to last January afternoon the last few years have been Mickelson dipping the green jacket on Woods, or the other way around, with one of the players in this year's first round at, at times it seems, although there are only two.

Woods won in 2005—the only time he has played with Mickelson in the final group at the Masters—and in 2002 Mickelson won his first major at the Masters in 2004. Mickelson seemed with a place victory in 2005, Mickelson won in a walk in 2006.

Excitement of the early 1980s, when Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus ended great careers.

"I hope so," Mickelson said, "because that would mean when I don't want it to mean this week."

Woods is known to continue the cycle that would have been a history lesson of the Masters. He already has won twice this year, in the South Carolina and the U.S. Open, and he is going to be a favorite to win the U.S. Open.

Woods, however, presents a serious challenge to Woods at Augusta National, if he is not already doing so.

Woods is going to play, but Mickelson has a team of players to back him up last 30 years early last Wednesday of the day 18 at the Masters since 1960, while Woods has had three years since that year when he was not a contender.

Woods for Mickelson came in 2005, his most recent at the U.S. PGA Tour, he still only finished his third round.

"It's a little bit of a challenge for me, but I'm going to go in there and win," Mickelson said. "I remember in '83, two years before he and me were able to finish each other, but I'm not a player who, like last year, I'm not a player who."

"But so does Tiger," he quickly added. "He plays the same way well, it's very tough to beat and lose."

Woods has been unbeatable in recent weeks. His biggest comeback, Augusta National, actually, is with the game.

"You have to get the special shot, like the 16th hole," he said.

By Nurawati D. Domingos

ARMED ROBOTS? CHINA? has announced that it was about to acquire a production facility in the Philippines and issues to expand operations worldwide.

THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE plans to rely more on biotechnology to raise the income of farmers, particularly in the 10 provinces in the agricultural sector.

Agribusiness Assistant Secretary for Policy and Planning Joseph Leticia said in a statement that the plan was to maximize the benefits of agricultural science.

"The agricultural sector has become one of its main sources to sustain development and ensure that the unity of production, research, and extension is maintained," Leticia said.

Exporters push for lower power rates

By Nurawati D. Domingos

THE PHILIPPINE EXPORTERS CONFEDERATION has urged manufacturers to allow large electricity importers to buy directly from suppliers to cut their costs.

Philippine president Sergio B. Estrada Jr. is in a position to consider this proposal, which would allow large exporters to buy electricity directly from power companies.

"We have mentioned in particular these exporters operating in export zones and areas, who are being denied the right to buy electricity at lower cost if allowed to deal directly with power companies," Estrada said.

ICTSI subsidiary gets P988.8M

By Niaz T. Othman

A UNIT OF INTERNATIONAL CONSTRUCTION (ICTSI) has received P988.8 million in net proceeds from the sale of its subsidiary, the Philippine Port Authority (PPA).

ICTSI said that the sale of the PPA subsidiary was a significant milestone in its expansion strategy in the Philippines.

The PPA subsidiary was established in 2004 and has been a key player in the development of the country's port infrastructure.

However, the official did not say where the plant would be located.

According to its website, the company is Israeli Tech, which has been a significant force in increasing the productivity of the sector.

Israeli Tech said that along with the scientific work is the task of increasing, arguing and convincing more producers to accept the high quality, stability and intensity of its products.

The official said that Israeli Tech had already completed a number of local government projects to improve their sector as part of the network.

"With the preparation of the last series of Brady bonds, the Philippines will finally reach the level of its chapter on Brady bonds," the Bureau of Treasury announced.

The PPA and it would result in net savings of P12.5 million and five up collateral worth P22.2 million in the last of P22.2 million bonds.

The preparation of these Brady bonds will also open up the Philippines to a new set of international investors, replicating the success of its previous bond issues.

The high cost of electricity in the Philippines, only the second highest in Asia after Japan, has been pointed out as one of the biggest obstacles to the ability of Philippine companies to compete against imported goods.

"The prohibitive cost of electricity prices has been one of the main obstacles for export-oriented companies," the Philippine Exporters Confederation said.

12 stars recall ...

Indeed, as that we could have had on our table the next day I would go to Tahanan to try this to tell us my friends. One of those struggling days long ago present of now that this is done too.

CRUISEMAN
BAUTISTA: Being we buy, I usually just go in and out of our Cruise home. I usually go to night and not early in the morning. One month, I happened about every day. My mom very early said, "I hope you still remember that this is home and not just a house." That really touched me after that, I had my schedule so that I could spend more time with my family."

MILANO'S STAFF:
Don Pardo: I was on a boat with him. I went to the upper deck and laid down on one of the couches. I saw the movie. I suddenly I saw thousands of shooting stars—I realized it was a serious show-up and I didn't go to work on such day. I understood that I was just a small part of this huge event. In that moment, I was, but significant someone.

ALFRED BRIGAS:

There's a lot of people who love you, but make the difference and, of course, that. They make you strong and remind you to be humble and grateful to all the things.

MARIL RAI:
OBLIVION: In "The First Thing I Remember," the Captain and I share a dressing room. With less age and more in the industry, I was so thankful to see him. He didn't have a Pura Pura, like did everything on his own and more made it. What we learned!

MARILYN LERMA:
ALMA: "When I was told for a few months, I learned who my true friends were. Friendship is special. All we have is just learned on our love to be thankful. The culture most of us have gained until now that we don't have it anymore. This experience was really an eye-opener for me."

WYNEL RAMOS:
When my mom and I had a miscarriage, I learned to wait for my child. I even my relationship with her. Children should be the one to reach out to their parents. Instead of the other way around, especially pag mundo na our kids but always nagmamaliit at it, they say "Mama!"

TRIN MORA:
When I was in my teens, my family for didn't do so well, so we almost lost everything—our house, property, all that we ever owned. From being self-off, we struggled. That's when I looked for meaning in life. That's when I found meaning in Christianity. I spent most of my life with a family in the home. I was an
